June next, for the nomination of candidates to

It takes $30,000 a month to pay off

Milwaukee citizens want to have the 10th pose of the soldiers' reunion.

Kearney has bought a Winchester repeating rifle as a bedfellow. Now if kind

At an election of members of the Board

Chief Douglas, the captive Ute, has already caught the American habit of giving several farewell tours. He has made his second escape from Fort Leavenworth, and is waiting for another chance.

If Congress passes the proposed measure admitting classical antiquities free of duty, it will not only provide for the free admission of the Egyptian obelisk but will also give Disraeli a chance to visit this country at a reduced expense.

It is reported that Brick Pomeroy, having sold out at La Crosse, is heading toward Denver, with a view of starting a paper there. If the Lord chasteneth those whom he loveth, Denver must indeed be greatly beloved, to be thus grievously chastened.

It is not to be wondered at that some of the Democrats show such anxiety to have the Fitz John Porter case go over until the next session, and end the talk. The more it is talked over, the worse it seems for them. The discussion has already given the Republicans some very good ammunition for the campaign.

Mayor Killoch yesterday issued a proclamation in which he insists that there is no reason to apprehend any violence from the workingmen of that city. He vouches for their good behavior. There is much doubt felt in San Francisco as to the sufficiency of this bail, and his assertion will not wholly allay the anxiety felt.

The Virginia Senate are not pleased at the recent decision of the United States Supreme Court in the case of Judge Giles, indicted for excluding negroes from juries.
No one expected they would like it, and hence, it is no surprise that resolutions were adopted protesting against an alleged death blow to State sovereignty.
They have rather peculiar ideas of State sovereignty, and try to make it cover a multitude of sins, among which is promising the unborn hatred of every dusky skin.
They prefer darkness to light in deeds, but not in men.

Lord Beaconsfield in his manifesto proclaims resistance to the plan of the Home-rulers, and insists that England must take a more prominent and active part in the settlement of European quarrels. He says: "Peace rests upon the presence, not to say the ascendancy, of England in the councils of Europe." To take a part in shaking up affairs abroad might draw attention away from home concerns, but it will take a lively shaking indeed to distract the attention of those whose eyes are turned toward Ireland, and who are wondering what measures of relief the English ministry will propose. There seems to be a goodly amount of work for England to do at home, before spending its time "in the councils of Europe."

De Lesseps is of a pliable, adaptable nature.
Although his plans for buying a French been thwarted by this Government, he proclamation, and with the gracefulness of a Parisian floor-manager, accepts the situation although it was just what he desires, and telegraphs his son that "this assures the political security of the canal." It probably matters little to him what Government controls his pet plan, provided it pays liberally for the control, and is not sparing of capital. Funds comes to the front with his plan for a ship railway, which he claims to be cheaper, and better, and by which the largest ships can be moved across the isthmus with four or five times as great speed as by a canal.

Now some aeronauts should present some plan for using balloons, so that there might be a choice between water, land, and air navigation.

Mr. Helper, once of "Impending Crisis" fame, but now of St. Louis, has projected a steel rail, double track, air-line railroad from Patagonia to Behring Straits. The conceiver has not informed us whether or not this line will probably run through our city, but immediate steps should be taken to get the bottom facts, and if the managers cannot be persuaded to give us the main line, a branch should at least be built to this city. It is for the interest of all parties that this should be done. There is a yearning, among the people on the projected continental route, to have a connection with Janesville. The fishermen of Alaska need our boots and woollens, the farmers of British America want our seeders and reapers, the women of Mexico must have our cotton batting, the aristocracy of Peru is pining for Todd's ale, the inhabitants of the forests and pampas of these southern countries want our flour, our cotton cloth, our sorghum molasses, corn-plasters, lager beer, punches and shears, carriages, wagons and patent buckles, and the cannibals of Terra del Fuego are yearning for some of our incipient missionaries to fill them with spiritual food. As civilization creeps in, their governments will be changed to conform to the advancing principles. In place of the primitive virtues and honesty with which they are blessed, duplicity and demagogism will have to be established. In reorganizing their municipal government, Janesville will of course be expected to furnish a model for Common Councils, and fortunately this city has an abundance of competent material which it can conveniently spare to go and help their less favored brethren. By all means let us have a speedy connection with Patagonia and Kamtschatka.

THE LEGISLATURE.

Special to the Gazette.

ASSEMBLY.
MADISON, March 11.—In the Assembly this morning the time was almost wholly taken up with a continuation of the contest between the Black River and Black Snake lumber companies, as to the proprietary rights on Black Snake river.

The Senate bill was amended, after a warm debate, so as to reserve all existing rights to the latter Company upon the Black Snake, the people promising to see that the bill, as amended, was rushed through both Houses. Thus ends the longest and most violent fight of the session, being a victory, in almost every particular, for the Black River Company.

SENATE.
In the Senate this morning a canvass of Senators showed that Bennett's bill to abolish the State Board of charities and all local boards of trustees, of charitable and penal institutions, and substitute a State Board of three trustees fully authorized and at good salaries, could not pass.

Bills were concurred in to prohibit unauthorized insurance companies from doing business in this State.

Bills were passed to regulate the sale and inspection of illuminating oils.

Providing for analysis of food and medicines and appointing a State inspector of the same.

Exempting from State licenses for five years any railroad company which shall build a connecting strip of road from Central Wisconsin to the Northern Pacific.

How Dana Got Rich.

[New York Letter to the Springfield Republican.]

A few days ago the real estate records showed the sale of a large house on Forty-seventh street, close by Fifth avenue, to Charles A. Dana for $33,000. He is one of the few working journalists in New York who have been able to purchase a house for that or any proximate price. Working journalism, as all within the profession well know, is not a means of winning gold. But ever since Dana's friends bought the Beach San twelve years ago, he has gained a comfort to be engaged in a newspaper enterprise which is handsomely remunerative. The San is, I think, the only journal which Dana has made any money out of, although his ventures have been varied. The American Cyclopaedia is probably the only other source of his present fortune, and out of it he is reported to have made from $100,000 to $150,000 clear.

A CONSULTATION.

The California Delegation Considering the Trouble in San Francisco.

NEW YORK, March 10.—A Washington special says the California delegation in Congress held a consultation last night for the purpose of deciding whether they had better communicate with the President in regard to the present condition of affairs in San Francisco. There was very little support of the theory that the United States could interfere with troops, upon the ground of duty to afford protection to the Chinese under our treaty obligations. It was decided to let the matter of calling on the President go for the present.

EVERYTHING QUIET.

The Agitation in San Francisco Reported Quieting Down.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 10.—Everything here has been very quiet to-day. There is nothing new to report concerning the agitation. The community is evidently waiting and expecting some decided step.
It is understood that the executive committee of the Council held a meeting this afternoon, but nothing has yet transpired regarding the proceedings.

In conversation to-day, Kearney emphatically reiterated his statement, previously telegraphed, that, neither he nor the Workingmen's party desired any conflict, and that the first step must come from the other side. He further expressed confidence that some would occur. There is a rumor that Kearney is to be arrested to-night for his remarks at the meeting last evening.

INDIAN EDUCATION.

Congressman Pound's Bill for the Education of the Young Indians.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Congressman Pound, of Wisconsin, under instructions from the Committee on Indian affairs, has reported favorably his bill authorizing the Secretary of War to set aside any vacant military posts or barracks, so long as they shall not be required for military occupation, to be used as schools for Indian youth and to detail, without increasing pay, officers from either the active or retired list of the army for duty in connection with Indian education. This bill is the result of a report which has been very successful at the schools which were established not long ago at Carlisle Barracks, Pa., and at Hampton, Va., at which 150 or more Indian youth of both sexes are being educated.

A BIG HAUL.

A Bold and Successful Robbery of Gold Bullion at Sidney.

CHEYENNE, March 10.—A bold and successful robbery of gold bullion occurred at Sidney, Neb., to-day, while the Union Pacific Express agent, Snyder, was at dinner.
The amount taken is variously estimated at from $120,000 to $200,000. An entrance was effected through the floor of the Express office.

A telegram from Sidney, just received, states that the treasure has been recovered except $13,000. It was found under a pile of coal near the Union Pacific Railway track, where the track-man had seen robbers conceal something in the afternoon.

ASSESSMENTS.

Some Telling Republican Speeches on the Political Assessment Bill.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—The Republicans took their turn at discussing the political assessment bill to-day, and some very effective speeches were made. Congressman Young first took the floor, and replied to the attack made yesterday by Mr. House, of Tennessee, upon Minister Noyes. Mr.
Young traced the early life of General Noyes, his steady progress upward, his brilliant service in the army, and paid a glowing tribute to his character as an honorable gentleman.
Mr. Young then took up the subject of President Hayes' administration, and defended it against some of the charges made by Mr. House. In the course of his speech he made some very severe references to Tilden, whom he characterized as "that effete specimen of raceability."

Mr. Butler then took the floor, making a number of telling points against the Democratic policy, and its inconsistency and the absurdity of the Democratic attitude in sustaining such a measure as is now proposed. Between them the two Ohio speakers gave the majority a number of home thrusts. Crowley and Richardson, of New York, also made speeches and then the House adjourned. No agreement was reached about taking a vote, but the Democrats evidently do not intend to allow any more debate, while the Republicans seem disposed to filibuster unless they are allowed more time.

OPINIONS.

The Porter Case—Congress and the President.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—The Democrats in the Senate are becoming somewhat wearied of the profligate debate on the Fitz John Porter case. A leading Senator of that side threatened privately to-day to take the first opportunity and move the postponement of the whole subject until the 1st of next December, and this afternoon Mr. Garland gave notice of a motion to refer it to the Judiciary Committee to obtain an opinion upon the law points involved. This, if carried out, would be equivalent to postponement to the next session. The wisest Democrats see that they have got the worst of the debate, and fear its political effect.

From the private conversation of leading Democrats of both houses, it is pretty safe to anticipate that there will be no renewal of the dispute between Congress and the President on the subject of deputy marshals, etc., as the Supreme Court has decided the election laws to be constitutional. The ground is taken that the Democrats cannot sustain themselves in renewing the struggle on this point; that they must make the necessary appropriations to carry on the laws, and then the true policy will be to make the issue before the people on the repeal of laws.

THOMAS.

CINCINNATI, O., March 10.—At a meeting of the directors of the Musical Festival Association this afternoon the resignation of George Ward Nichols, President, was accepted, also of Directors J. Burnet, Jr., and Peter Rudolph Neff. The plan to retain Mr. Thomas at the head of the college by buying the controlling interest in stock, has been abandoned, and there is hope of success, of the project to keep him here as head of the orchestra training school.

DE BOER, DOOMED.

PONTIAC, March 10.—To-day the Supreme Court at Ottawa, refused to grant a supersedeas in the De Boer case, so he will have to hang on the 17th. Preparations for the execution are being made.
About fifty persons will be allowed to witness the hanging, which will be in the east room in the County Jail. De Boer murdered Ella Martin, of Minook, last October.

O'LEARY AND WESTON.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 10.—There was good attendance at the Pavilion to-night.
O'Leary and Weston were both in first race condition. At 9 o'clock O'Leary had scored 233 miles, and Weston 213, having gained five miles on O'Leary during the afternoon.

THE DEMOCRATS.

MADISON, March 10.—The Democratic State Central Committee met in the basement of the Capitol to-night, and designated May 13 as the time and Madison as the place of holding the Democratic State Convention.

Prof. Nordenskjold's Vessel.

An unexpectedly fine day tempted me to go and make the closer acquaintance of the Vega. She is a whaler of 500 tons, painted black, and of bare ornament, save for a glided line below her bulwarks. She is fitted up with a small engine that enables her, without sails, to move at the slow rate of five miles an hour. As she lay, so black and unpretending, on the water, I fancied what a dark little nutshell she must have looked when jammed among the ice-fields off the East Cape. The obliging officer showed us the track of the vessel on the chart, and the point at which she stuck fast, a little to the south west of the East Cape, where she lay open for seven days and would have carried her safely round and spared the ten months' waiting. Here, attached by ropes to large pieces of ice, about 5,000 feet distant from the Siberian coast, the stout little vessel waited, and her inhabitants did not suffer too much from the cold of winter, for the sides of the ship are composed of two strata of wood, between which is a lining of felt; and on the stern, beside this, there is a vacant space between wood and felt, through which passed hot air. Thus, a temperature of 20 and more degrees above zero was maintained in the saloon and cabins, when outside it showed 50 degrees below zero. Five stoves were kept constantly heated in different parts of the vessel, and yet the ceilings were lined with strips of ice, the result of condensation. The cold was not the voyagers' worst enemy, and they suffered but little from it, but it was impossible to face the terrible storms of wind, which drove the snow along at the rate of 35 miles an hour, and during such times of storm, which repeatedly occurred all the month of May, the illustrious explorers shut themselves up as hermetically as the Tutchuki, the Esquimaux, and other Arctic populations. Until the increasing depth of the snow prevented such exercise, skating and games of ball assisted in keeping up the health and spirits of the crew, not a man of which was lost or even seriously ill. On arriving at the mouth of the Lena, the illustrious King of Italy the Grand Order of the Crown of Italy, and from the King of Sweden that of the Polar Star, through the hands of the Italian Admiral and Swedish Ambassador. The news is now confirmed that the Nordenskjold, the steamer that was sent in search of the Vega, and which stranded off one of the Japanese islands, is now about again, and, if possible, will be newly fitted out, and next year attempt the northeast passage in the contrary direction to that so successfully taken by the Vega.

BESIDE THE BARS.

Grandmother's knitting has lost its charm; Unheeded it lies in her ample lap.
While the sunset's crimson, soft and warm, Touches the fringe of her snowy cap.

She is gazing on two beauteous bars, Under the maple—who little care For the growing dusk or the falling stars Or the hint of frost in the autumn air.

One is a slender slip of a girl And one a man in the pride of youth;
The maiden pure as the purest pearl, The lover strong in his steadfast truth.

"Sweet, my own, as a rose of June," He says, full low, o'er the golden head, Could grandmother hear the soft words said.
"Melted away" 'mid the evening stars.

For it seems but a little while ago Since under the maple, beside the bars, She stood a girl, while the sunset's glow Melted away 'mid the evening stars.

And one, her lover, so bright and brave, Spoke words as tender, in tones as low;
They come to her now, beyond the grave,
The words of her darling, so long ago.

"My own one, sweet as a rose of June!" Her eyes are dim as she looks to him, But her heart keeps time to the old love tune As she watches her daughter's child to-night.

A world between them, perhaps you say, Yes, one has read the story through;
One has been beautiful yesterday,
And one to-morrow fair to view.

But little you dream how fond a prayer Goes up for two, gazing his lover's way, For the best word, passing through there,
To the two who linger beside the bars.

MY SCOTCH LASSIE.

BY JOHN STEWART BLAIR.

If I had the brush of an angel,
Dipt in colors rich and rare,
I would paint with the boldest lining My Scotch lassie fresh and fair.

Fresh is she as the dewy morning, Fair as blossom on the spring tree, Fragrant as the birch-tree waving In the fresh breeze of the May.

O, my bright and blooming lassie!
Maiden more stately well may be;
But no statelier maiden ever Breathed a smile so sweet as she.

O, my bonnie blithe lassie, Mild as bloom on hawthorn tree, Rich as June, and ripe as Autumn, Flower and fruit in one is she.

Saw you ever cowslip warmer When the zephyrs came to woo?
Saw you bright-eyed speedwell peeping South the hedge with purer blue?

Warmer than her keen, pulse-keeping Time to all things true and good, Brier than her blue eyes swelling In young love's divinest mood?

Softer floats no plummy sea-gull Than her bosom's heaving charms, Sweeter no lake nor water swifter Than the whitest of her arms.

If I had the brush of an angel,
Dipt in colors rich and rare—
Not for colors rich and rare—I would paint a form so fair.

Let them think who live in dreamland, What the brain's phantasies may say;
I have feasted on the substance,
And the shadow pales away.

I will not make dainty mockery With a painted thin display Of a life that breathes and burgeons With the pulses of the May.

I will see my dear Scotch lassie In the days that sweep the hills, In the bright far shimmering ocean,
In the silver-flashing rills.

I will see her where the wan derling Does seek his home from the brack, Where the martyr to the martyr Pours his full-throated lay.

I will feed upon the sweetness,
Of her presence near to me,
And her wealth of grace that haunts Like a dream upon a tree.

I will live on the dear memory Of that hour of burning bliss, When she lent her lips and thrilled me With the rapture of her kiss!

IN A MOUNTAIN STORM.

An Officer Tells His Story.

Omaha Herald.

A graphic description of the hardships of winter quarters in the Ute country was unfolding to a Herald reporter yesterday by an officer who had come through from the heart of the hostile land.

"What troops are there in the Ute country?" I asked the reporter.

"There are six companies of the Seventh infantry lying below Snake river, two companies of the Fourth infantry, and three companies of the Fifth cavalry at White river, three companies of the Fourth infantry at Bear river, a battalion of the Fourteenth infantry and two companies of the Ninth infantry at Snake river."

"How are they living?"
"They are wintering in tents and dugouts. They have an abundance of furs, but no fresh vegetables, and an attack of scurvy. This is a very dangerous department, and, mind you, we do not find fault with it, but it is very difficult to send supplies down there."

"And how do the men stand it?"
"They are in fair health. I believe no others on the face of the earth can endure as well as Americans. They are brave, plucky, intelligent, and have inventive powers not surpassed by any other people.
It is a marvel that men can stand it. There are dead horses, mules and cattle lying around like pigeons at a shooting match, all starved and frozen."

"I understand you were with the frozen wagon train?"
"I was with the train. It started from Rawlins to go down to White river, and was caught in the snow on the 23d, 24th, 25th and 26th of December. No words can convey an idea of the horror of that storm.
The temperature was about 30 above zero, when the wind shifted suddenly to the northwest, and the mercury fell so low that it refused to mark. The sky was clear for a while, and a fierce wind blew with velocity. I should say, of sixty miles an hour.
It had been still we should have had five feet of snow on a level.
We halted for the night at Separation creek. The train was divided, part of the wagons being left with the wheel mules, and the teams being doubled up to ten miles on a six mile load. The wagons in advance only made two and a half miles in six hours. After the halt the drivers of the wagons in advance—citizens teamsters—came piling back to the creek where I and the surgeon were. Their noses were as white as the wall. The surgeon could do nothing but put snow on their frozen faces and hands. They had left everything and made a break for life.
If they had been ten miles away instead of two and a half they could not have reached us. I never saw such a demoralized outfit in my life. The only men who stayed by me were three soldiers. There were seventeen of the drivers who came back. Four deserted and have never been seen since. It is not known whether they are alive or not."

"Where did you go for relief?"
"I started for Rawlins, twenty-two miles away on the 25th, travelling on horse back and in a spring wagon. It took me six days to get there. When I reached Rawlins I sent out a relief, and the frozen teamsters were brought back in wagons."

"How do you feel about fighting, now?"
"We would be glad of a prospect of war after all this suffering. We would like to have something to do. Officers and men are both provoked at what they consider an unnecessary delay. They think they ought to have been allowed to settle this thing last fall—to go in and have it out with the Indians. The Indians could not have got away. Their women and children were within fifty miles when we reached the White River, just over the divide. They are gaining everything by the delay."

"Have you seen any of them?"
"We have not seen an Indian since we have been out here, but they have seen us all the while. Whether we have a spring Run, tributary of Pine Creek, as the location of the mine, and commenced digging. Year after year he dug with perseverance and faith beyond all praise until death stopped all operations, compelling him to vacate a splendid array of deep holes and his hope of a silver mine. After his death the story was told of the great iron-bound boxes sent away in the night, of rich clothing which callers who went in his room, without waiting to rap, caught sight of, and of light through the heavily shadowed windows, and smoke and fire from the chimney in the middle of the night; but the probabilities are that the Pine Creek silver mine never had a civilized existence, and is one of the many legends the Indians tell to annoy and delude the unsuspecting pale face.

The Source of Nihilism.

London Times.

Russia is now the only European country in which the traveler feels that he is under a constant system of espionage. It is disagreeable even to a passing visitor; but it must press with a constant weight on the people themselves. Every Russian is sensible that he is under supervision, that he is never his own master nor able to act freely. He is liable to be reported on, and a record is kept of his conduct and tendencies. There is something maddening to some natures in being thus perpetually watched and tracked like a wild animal, and the Russian character is peculiarly liable to be worked into excitement by it. There is a silence and gloom about the people whom one meets in public in Russian cities, which indicates that they are living under a constant sense of repression, and some of the later nature is sure to assert itself against such an unnatural condition of existence. There is nothing, moreover, in the circumstances of Russian society to divert men's attention from this oppressive system. No public career is open to a Russian who does not belong to the official class; there is little independent professional life, and even commerce is in great measure confined within narrow and absolute channels. In a word, the disease of Russia is not so much the absence of political life and freedom as the absence of any real life and freedom at all. No man feels that he is in any respect his own master, or that he can make his own career. In this gloom and sense of restraint men brood over their grievances, the more educated compare their condition with what they read of the life of other European countries, and it is no wonder if the weaker or more unscrupulous among them are incited to dark conspiracies against the whole order of society. The Russian nature, as is shown by the religious condition of the country, is liable to fanaticism; and when the writer in the present terrible crimes, is sufficiently accounted for by the operation of the influences we have described on this fanatical temperament.

A Washington Character.

Near the United States Medical Museum, the scene of the assassination of President Lincoln, stands an old hotel, and in this lives Washington's "character," John Birch by name. Birch was born in the same hotel about the time that General Washington died, and during the last twenty years of his life he has been a constant inmate of the place. He was a great favorite of the President, and it is said that he was the only man who was allowed to see the President in his last moments. Birch was a great favorite of the President, and it is said that he was the only man who was allowed to see the President in his last moments. Birch was a great favorite of the President, and it is said that he was the only man who was allowed to see the President in his last moments.

Very Simple Childhood.

I went to a child's party the other night, says a New York letter, but there were no children there. The guests were all grown up young men and women, but they dressed as children. No one was allowed to be over eight years old, and some were crawling babies. The youngest boy measured six feet five in his stockings. He was so young he could not speak, and just crawled around and shook his rattle. A boy of five was a boy well known in local politics. What a handle his enemies would make of his little rattle. There was no conversation except baby talk, and nothing played but children's games. "Don't you know the mulligan game?" "Oh, sweet beans and barley grows." "Clap in and clap out." formed the staple amusement of the evening. It was too funny to see men with mustaches dressed in short skirts and ankle-breeches, skipping about the floor. The act of childhood was kept up admirably through the evening, and the idea was a triumph.

BRIEFLETS.

—Prayer meetings.
—The millitamen meet to-night.
—Sermons at both Methodist churches this evening.
—Services at the Trinity Episcopal church to-night.
—Mr. Edward Keating, the mason, is very ill with inflammation of the lungs.
—There was thieving at Clinton again last night. Several watches were stolen.
—The diggers of the well at the Cemetery have now got down about seventy-five feet.
—There was a small but joyous gathering of friends at the residence of Mr. James Sherer last evening.
—Rev. E. L. Eaton, of Beloit, is to occupy the pulpit of the First Methodist church next Sunday, in exchange with Rev. H. Sewell.
—District Attorney Sale has so far recovered as to be able to move about the house a little. All hope for a speedy and full return of his health and vigor.
—Nash's ice house is now in shape again ready for business. The front part of the building is not yet completed, but that will be also in shape in the course of two weeks or so.
—T. J. Cairns & Bro., having torn down the awning in front of their dry goods store, have still further improved the looks of the front, by hoisting over the door an elegant and dainty sign, bearing the firm name.

—Elmer Tice, who has been connected with the telegraph office here, went to Appleton yesterday to take charge of the office there, it being the same position which his brother, H. A. Tice, has held for several years.

—A Fond du Lac dry goods firm are thinking of taking the store now occupied by Moseley & Bro., and opening up a big stock of goods here. They have taken until Saturday to decide whether they will rent the store or not.

—The delegates appointed by the several fire companies, for the purpose of nominating candidates for chief and assistant engineers of the department, will meet at the West side engine house on Saturday evening, at 7:30 o'clock.

—Miss Gavin is booked to read at the great Reményi concert to be given in Chicago, Friday and Saturday evenings. She is evidently appreciated at home as well as abroad. She is to read at the Opera house here, on the evening of St. Patrick's day.

—Courtney, who attempted suicide by cutting his throat with a razor, is recovering from the effects of the rash, but is quite deranged, and it is expected that he will need to be sent to the Insane Asylum, as soon as he gains strength, as he is liable to attempt a like assault on himself, if not closely watched.

—J. G. Rexford remembers the Gazette in his foreign travels, and sends us an Italian paper containing a highly colored portrait of the King, Prince Amalio, and other notables. We suppose there are plenty of interesting items in its columns also, but although it is printed in Italian we have not had time to read it all through.

The West Side engine house was thronged with visitors last evening, our citizens being anxious to see the new hook and ladder truck. There was no formality to the reception, but everybody enjoyed it just as much as though there had been long-speeches and other dreary doings. The new truck gained many words of praise, and of course the critics, who are omnipresent and omniscient, were represented. Its merits and demerits were therefore freely discussed.

—A Board of Trade man took his first lesson on the telephone last evening. He couldn't catch a word. He told the fellow at the other end of the line to yell, but it was useless. The Board of Trade man then rose in his wrath and pronounced the whole thing a fraud. There was no virtue in it. A bystander suggested that if he would pull the cotton out of his ears he might improve his hearing. He had forgotten all about that, and after a few bales and a second class battery factory had been taken out, the telephone worked all right.

—The funeral services of E. C. Bailey were held this afternoon. There was prayer at the house, and the public services were held at the First Methodist church, Rev. Henry Sewell officiating. The Order of United Workmen attended in a body, and took charge of the burial services. Rev. T. W. MacLean acting as their chaplain. The Bower City Band was also in attendance, and played suitable music as the sad procession wended its way to the cemetery. There was a large representation of the Sons of Temperance, of which the deceased was a member, and many other friends and sympathizing ones showed their respect by attending the last sad rites of the departed one.

—Miss Lavina Goodell, of Janesville, who is stopping in this city, has received word from Madison that the case of the State against T. G. Ingalls, which she had appealed to the Supreme Court, has been decided in her favor. She submitted the case without argument, and as it is the second suit which she has gained, she feels justly satisfied. When the first one was tried she had not been admitted to the Supreme Court, as a practitioner, and was obliged to work through another attorney. In this last case she had as consulting counsel Miss Kate Kane, of this city, so that it is "a case with women in it," throughout.

—Many in our city, who have heard the Irish songstress, Rosa D'Erina, will be surprised to learn of the sensation created by her at Davenport, Iowa, a few days ago. A special dispatch to the Cincinnati Enquirer states that she had occupied rooms at Mercy hospital for two weeks on account of illness. She gave the Sister Superior a $500 United States bond for security. When she recovered and was ready to go on her way, she asked to see the bond, and getting it in her hand rushed out of the hospital, jumped into a carriage which was in waiting, and drove off. Her side of the story has not been told, and it may give a different coloring to the affair.

—The Ripon College Glee Club, under the direction of Prof. D. F. Stillman, is to give a concert at Lippin's music hall next Tuesday evening. The Club consists of a double male quartet, and they are to give college songs and other enjoyable selections, making the entertainment unique. The young men come here highly endorsed, both as gentlemen and as singers, and with the well known name of Prof. Stillman gracing the programme, there can be no doubt but that the entertainment will be a good one. The tickets are only twenty-five cents, and no extra charge for reserved seats. The school children can get reserved seats for fifteen cents.

—Serious complaints are made concerning the way one of the First ward men is running his family matters. It is claimed that the motherless children are much abused, and that they are suffering at times from hunger and cold. It is related that one evening lately, the father went down town with one of the children, and purchased some raisins, giving the child the package to carry. On the way home he took a few drinks, which put him in an irritable frame of mind, and when he arrived home and found that the child had broken open the package, and eaten some of the raisins, he proceeded to maul her with a stick, and then thrust her out of doors, where she stood shivering from the cold night wind, until a kind hearted neighbor took care of her. Such is a sample of some of the statements made, and it is high time that the matter should be looked into. If there is cruelty and suffering of this kind in such a civilized country as this there should be some prompt remedy applied.

THE NEW RAILROAD.

The New Company Organized and the Proposition Made to the City of Janesville.

The talk concerning a new railroad from here to Beloit has been gradually ripening into action. The articles of association of the company have been filed in the office of the Secretary of State at Madison, and the certificate of incorporation was issued yesterday. The incorporators are Dr. Henry Palmer, M. C. Smith, Hiram Merrill, C. F. G. Collins, J. M. Cobb, C. C. Keeler, F. S. Eldred, A. A. Jackson, and S. J. M. Putnam. The company is to have a capital of $150,000, divided into 1,500 shares of $100 each, and its object as set forth in the articles of association is that of "constructing, maintaining and operating a railroad from a point in the Monroe branch of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway, at Section 4, Town 2, North Range 12, westwardly to a point in the Racine & Southwestern division of said Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway at or near the east boundary line of the city of Beloit."

It is proposed to build the road at once and have it in running order by the first of next January, and the company offers to enter into an agreement to do this, provided the city will subscribe to 100 shares of stock, for which $10,000 is to be paid in cash on the completion of the road, it completed on or before January 1, 1891. The company will to-morrow give notice that they will present to the tax-payers of the city petitions for their signatures, favoring the city entering into this agreement. If a majority of the tax-payers of the city sign this petition, it makes the contract between the city and company a binding one, without the delay or expense incident to holding an election. It gets at the will of the tax-payers, and at the same time effects all the practical purposes of an election.

The object, and benefits of such a line have already been dwelt upon in the Gazette. If this measure is carried out and the road built from here to Beloit, there will be a road from Rockford to Beloit, a continuation of the line. The Rockford people are anxious for such a line, and are waiting with some impatience for the completion of the portion of the plan which is now being laid out here.

The interest which the Milwaukee & St. Paul Company takes in this line is of course no small one. It is claimed, though not authoritatively, that the St. Paul Company has secured the control of the Chicago & Pacific Railroad, and there seems little reason to doubt but that the statement is based on fact. If the contemplated line is pushed from here to Beloit, thence to Rockford, there is only a little gap left between Rockford and the Chicago & Pacific road. There is already a short line from Rockford to that road, and it is about to be foreclosed, and of course the St. Paul road will take it. Thus will be opened up an almost southern air line from Janesville, and another route to Chicago, besides opening up connections to the West. The Chicago & Pacific line now terminates at Byron, but there is a project on foot to push it on a little further touching at either LaSalle or Mt. Carroll. This will give the St. Paul road a valuable connection with its Iowa and Western lines. In fact if one will take up the map and look up these proposed changes and additions it will be seen that the connecting link between here and Beloit will be a valuable one, and will open up the shipping facilities of Janesville, and place it in easy connection with other important points from which the city is now severed.

THE COMING MASQUERADE.

The Grand Ball Masque to be given by the Janesville Guards at Cannon's hall, on Monday, March 26th, will, without doubt, be one of the affairs of the season. It will be strictly an invitation party, and conducted in the same manner as though given at one's own home. Maskers will enter from Milwaukee street and spectators from Jackson street. Not one of the least attractive features of the evening will be the fancy drill of the Chicawas Guards, composed of a select 16 from that celebrated company. Other novelties in the way of marches, fancy dances, drills, etc., will be introduced during the evening. Music by Anderson's orchestra. Admission 75 cents, to gallery 25 cents. Arrangements are being made to have a good supply of costumes from Chicago, of which full information will be given later.

ROBBING A ROOM-MATE.

A Young Man Pilfers His Chum's Trunk and Secures $65—The Recovery of the Money and Confession of the Theft.

Among the boarders at Mr. Strow's house, corner of Bluff and High streets, is a young man by the name of Robbins, a telegraph student. Robbins, for fear of losing what money he had, about $65, hid it between the folds of some shirts in his trunk, and has made this his bank for some time. Yesterday on going to his trunk he found his treasure missing. Suspicion fell upon his room-mate, another telegraph student named John W. Jacobs, and evidence pointed so strongly to him as the thief that he was put under arrest by Marshall Russell. The young man was searched, but no trace of the missing money could be found, and search was made among his effects at his boarding place, but all in vain. Finally the Marshall, confident that he had the right man, told Jacobs that he knew he had taken the money, and insisted on searching him more thoroughly, proposing to have him strip to the skin. The young man then weakened, and owned up that it was in his hat. Sure enough, an examination of the head-covering revealed $50 of the stolen money, snugly put away in the lining. He then confessed to the officer that he had taken the money last Monday. He had spent a portion of it, it is supposed, as he has lately purchased some trinkets. A missing pocket is also laid to the charge of the young man, but he persistently denied that he had stolen anything else but this money, and that there was only $50 of that.

Jacobs is a young man, of pleasing appearance, and is apparently a novice in crime. His home is at Benton, Ill., and he has been in this city for about four months. He was brought before Justice Prichard this afternoon and the case adjourned until next Tuesday, bail being fixed at $300, in default of which he was locked up.

THE ROYAL ARCADE.

The Grand Council of the Royal Arcanum, which has been in session at Milwaukee, finished its business yesterday, and elected officers for the ensuing year. Janesville is well represented by Dr. J. B. Whiting, who is now Grand Past Regent, and S. Clark Burdham, who has been elected Orator. The report for the year was very encouraging. The Council was organized in April, 1879, with fourteen subordinate councils and a total membership of 555. On the first day of this month there were fifteen councils and a total membership of 725.

Most popular New York Hotel, the Astor House.

A SOLDIERS' REUNION.

Hon. Pliny Norcross was at Delavan, last Monday evening, and was present at the soldiers' reunion held there. The veterans with wives, babies, sisters, cousins, etc., came thronging in from all directions, filling the floor of the hall. The affair was rather informal, and was full of enthusiasm. The music of fife and drum stirred them all up to a remembrance of old times. Miss Lewis, of Clinton, a sweet singer, helped in the entertainment. Several speeches were made by residents of Delavan, and Captain Norcross gave the audience a talk, which was well received. There was also a tableaux given showing life in camp, men on picket duty, stealing chickens, the canteen of Bourbon used as a counterpane to pass the guard, etc., all of which was heartily enjoyed. All who participated in this reunion of Walworth County veterans pronounce it a big success.

BOWER CITY RIFLES, ATTENTION.

All members are requested to be at the Armory this evening. Business of importance to be considered. By order of J. B. LA GRANGE, Captain.

ORFORDVILLE.

—A few of the young people of the village and vicinity went to Brodhead to the "banquet" of Friday and Saturday evenings. All report favorably.

—The young ladies, and some of the older ones, are going to show their independence, in the way of a "Leap Year" party some time in the future.

—Walace Taylor is making preparations for an entertainment at the close of his school, Monday of next week. All are invited.

—The entertainment last Friday evening at the close of the school taught by Miss Lilly Taylor, was well attended. The school house is a large one, but it was filled to overflowing.

—Another of the oldest settlers of this vicinity died at his home in this place last Sunday morning. Mr. Gray has been complaining for the most of the winter, and at last died peacefully. The funeral services took place Tuesday by appropriate reading and singing, and prayer at the house of the deceased, then to the church, where services were held by Rev. Judge Wick, of this place, after which the remains were taken to their last resting place, followed by the many relatives and friends, and the members of the I. O. O. F., of which he was a member.

—Remember the choir meeting.

—Last Sunday being the day for quarterly services, Elder Stowe preached morning and evening. In the evening baptismal services were performed, and some taken into full connection with the church.

—Samuel Honeysett and Sammie Honeysett, Jr., are both reported as being very sick.
